INTENTION TO RAISE ENTRANCE STANDARD

DISCUSSION OVER QUALIFICATIONS

Question Arises When Applicants
For Admission on Trial to Conference Are Presented.

ATTEMPT TO RAISE STANDARD

Bishop Anderson Announces Intent of General Conference—Afternoon Business Session.

A class of eight young men was admitted on trial for the first year at the morning business session of the Indiana conference, but some discussion arose over the qualifications of the entrants. No one of the applicants was refused.

The business of the conference is so pressing that another business session was held at the Main Street Christian church this afternoon while the program was being carried on at the St. Paul M. E. church.

At this session the reports of the standing committees were heard and reports of the progress made in the M. E. educational institutions were made by the college presidents.

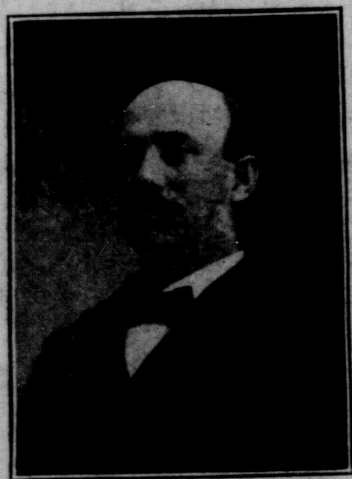

Some objection to the reception of Elmer A. Hartsaw of the Bloomington district was raised because he did not come up to the qualifications. It was asked that his case be made an exceptional one since he had such remarkable success with the pastorate at Monrovia, Ind. A. H. Pitkin of Greencastle, the superintendent of the district, praised him and asked that he be admitted, but the board of examiners did not recommend it.

His supporters came to his aid, and ministers who did not want the standard for admittance lowered, advised against his admittance, although they said they appreciated the valued service he had done as a supply pastor. One of the qualifications is that man asking admittance shall be a high school graduate and that he shall have passed a prescribed course of study.

Dr. Joshua Stansfield of the Meridian Street church, Indianapolis, said the real question at issue should not be clouded; that it was whether Mr. Hartsaw was capable and met the requirements of the conference standard. He declared that the conference should take and make provisions for cases similar to this where the applicant has done valiant service as a supply pastor, but is not

SHOWS PERIL OF SOCIALISM

Dr. Hill of New York Delivers Severe
Arraignment of Order Opposed

CONFERENCE LECTURE GIVEN

Five Addresses at Afternoon Session at Which Pastors' Problems Are Discussed.

No session of the Indiana M. E. conference in session here has aroused so much enthusiasm as that evinced at the annual conference lecture at the Main Street Christian church when Dr. John Wesley Hill of New York, president of the International Peace Forum and for five years recently the pastor of the Metropolitan Methodist church in New York, delivered an address on the subject, "Socialism, Its Perils to the Church."

The applause was frequent and occasionally Dr. Hill was interrupted by the enthusiasm. At the conclusion of the lecture the hand clapping was spontaneous and the immense crowd arose as one and saluted Dr. Hill with the waving of handkerchiefs.

B. F. Miller sang a tenor solo and the crowd was so insistent that he had to sing again, but not until Dr. W. R. Halstead of Terre Haute, retired, and an author of several religious works offered prayer. Mr. Miller next sang a hymn in honor of his sainted mother, the one, he said, that he last heard her sing. He said he wanted to sing in honor of the mothers of everyone present. The crowd was very visibly affected at the close of the song, and the applauding was not done by hand clapping.

James E. Watson presided and introduced Dr. Hill, who is a very dear friend of his. He paid many fine compliments to Dr. Hill, declaring that he always liked to preside when he talked, but he never liked to follow, because Dr. Hill was a hard man to clean up after.

In replying Dr. Hill said Mr. Watson had manufactured a case not built upon the facts. I love James E. Watson, he said, for what he is, and not because of his enemies. The audience applauded. Dr. Hill said that Mr. Watson was nervous, so he would desist, though he was about to nominate him for president. This mention brought another burst of applause, and Dr. Hill concluded that if it lay with the Methodists, the nomination would take place at once.

"After nineteen years," began Dr. Hill, "the world is full of inequalities. Man's inhumanity is still apparent. Labor is too exacting; grasping capital sometimes forgets to be human. The common justice which Christ introduced is the salvation of the world. The social problem must be solved by Jesus Christ. It can't be solved by legislation because government can't legislate poverty and intemperance into oblivion and never can create equality. It can establish the minimum wage, but it can't legislate devotion or energy into the wage earner."

He continued that the church has

ASSIGNMENTS AT THE CLOSE

Platform Meeting of Methodist Educational Institutions is Held
This Afternoon.

The high tide of the eighty-second session of the Indiana Methodist conference, which has been in session here since last Tuesday and will close next Monday morning, will be reached tomorrow, conference Sunday. The day is filled with meetings.

The conference will close with a business session Monday morning, at which the assignments for the year will be read. The conference cabinet, Bishop Anderson and the district superintendents, have been working diligently this week at every opportunity to get the list of appointments settled. The cabinet was delayed for a time by the sudden illness of Dr. Festus A. Steele of Seymour, superintendent of the Jeffersonville district, but he has recovered and the meetings are going on as before. The cabinet was in session yesterday afternoon and again last night, and was to hold at least two sessions today.

The conference love feast will be conducted at the St. Paul church at nine o'clock by Dr. W. R. Halstead of Terre Haute, a retired minister of the conference and a prominent author. The conference sermon will be delivered at this church at 10:30 by Bishop Anderson. At the same hour visiting ministers will fill the pulpits at the other churches.

At two o'clock in the afternoon will take place the ordination of the class of Deacons and Elders and the consecration of the Deaconesses at the St. Paul church, with Bishop Anderson presiding. At three o'clock at the same place the anniversary of the American Brotherhood will be celebrated and Dr. William S. Board, general secretary, of New York, will speak. He will also address the Century Bible class of the Christian Sunday school Sunday morning. This meeting will be for men and boys and at the same hour at the Main Street Christian church there will be a meeting for women, addressed by Mrs. William F. Anderson, wife of the bishop. Mrs. J. P. D. John of Greencastle will preside.

The evening meeting will be held at the coliseum and all the churches of the city will join in the service. At 7:30 the anniversary of the Board of Foreign Missions will be celebrated with an address by Dr. William F. Oldham, secretary, of New York, formerly missionary bishop of India. At 8:30 the anniversary of the Board of Sunday schools will be observed and Dr. Edgar Blake of Chicago, the secretary, will speak. This will be a farewell service to the first missionary ever sent by the Sunday school board to foreign lands, although the missionary himself can not be present.

This afternoon at two o'clock the platform meeting of the Methodist educational institutions was held. "The Small College" was the subject of the address by Dr. Harry A. King,

The hogs were shipped in eight cars and all arrived safely in Buffalo, not a single hog dying or being injured. The hogs were Rush county products and were raised on the Trabue farm. RAY MATNEY STILL IN INDIANAPOLIS

Claims to Have Spent Few Days in Cincinnati and Then Went to Home of Parents.

TALKS TO FORMER EMPLOYER

Raymond Matney, who mysteriously disappeared from home Saturday night or Sunday morning, has been heard from, says the Connersville News. He is now at Indianapolis but full particulars regarding his strange absence have not been learned as yet. Last night A. H. Rieman at whose store he had been employed, received a long distance call from Indianapolis. The party on the other end of the line was Matney and he told Mr. Rieman that he intended to return to Connersville this morning, but late this afternoon he had not arrived.

When asked over the telephone where he had been for the past few days he explained he was in Cincinnati a part of the time, but did not enter into any lengthy explanation as to why he was there. His wife and daughter are now at Rushville, at the home of Mrs. Matney's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robertson. Matney spent last night in Indianapolis with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Matney, and is still there as far as is known here.

COLORED MAN WAS RELEASED TODAY

Joe Stewart Given Freedom When Ohio Officer Failed to Make Appearance Here.

WAS HELD OVER 24 HOURS

Joe Stewart, colored, who was arrested Thursday night by Chief McAllister upon the advice of the chief of police of Shelbyville, was released from jail this morning. Stewart was supposed to have been wanted in Washington Court House, Ohio, but the failure of any officer to arrive from there caused Chief McAllister to release the man. He was held as long as possible without any warrant or charge being preferred against him. Stewart was supposed to be wanted on a burglary charge in the Ohio city and the police were notified there that Stewart would go without requisition papers. They promised to come yesterday and when they did not show up this morning the colored man was given his freedom. He denied being connected with the alleged crime in Ohio but stated that the men caught had implicated him.

KNIGHTSTOWN GIRL MISSING

Father of Cloa Hart Suspects White
Slavery and Asks Aid of Indianapolis Police.

LEAVES WITH STRANGE MAN

Parent Believes Child May be Victim of Kidnap—Goes to Visit Sister.

The failure of Gloa Hart, 15 years old of Knightstown, to arrive at the home of her sister, Mrs. Charles Wilkinson in Indianapolis, has started an investigation by the police and an effort is being made to locate her. She is the daughter of William Hart, a well known resident of Knightstown.

In a letter to Mrs. Wilkinson, the father of the girl tells of Cloa Hart leaving home last Saturday evening to go to Indianapolis for a visit with her sister. The father expresses a belief that the girl "has been kidnapped and is a victim of a white slaver." He further states that he will "follow the man to the ends of the world." In the letter he instructed the girl's sister to notify the Indianapolis police.

When Cloa Hart left Knightstown, it is reported, she was in company with a tall, dark-complexioned stranger, who wore a soldier hat. This man, whose name is unknown, had been in Knightstown less than two weeks. It was not known that he was intimate with Miss Hart and until her disappearance and the start of the police investigation at Knightstown, it was not known that the girl had left town in the company of the men.

In speaking of the disappearance of the girl the Indianapolis Sun says:

Information was received by the police at noon today which led them to believe the couple had come to Indianapolis. A report from Knightstown says that the man was seen in this city by a man who knew him when he was working in Knightstown. The man under suspicion of having enticed the girl from her home to Indianapolis is said to have been employed by a contractor at Knightstown.

After Miss Hart left her home Saturday night she was seen to board an interurban car bound for Indianapolis. When William Hart received a letter from Mrs. Wilkinson and she said nothing of her sister arriving to visit her, Hart at once wrote to his daughter in an effort to learn if Cloa had arrived. When he received the information that she had not reached the home of Mrs. Wilkinson, Hart at once notified the police at Knightstown and an investigation was started.

His letter this morning to Mrs. Wilkinson started a police investigation in this city. The police also will communicate with the police department of Springfield, Ill., as Hart has information that the stranger said to a fellow workman that he was going to Springfield, Ill., but nothing was said at that time about the girl.

Mrs. Wilkinson said today that her sister's visit was to have been a surprise to her. Cloa had planned the visit, according to relatives, and no suspicion of any intentions to leave her home in company with a strange man were thought of. A description given the police of Miss Hart states that the girl is 15 years old, slender in build and a little more than 5 feet in height. She has blue eyes and light hair.

The stranger is described as about 25 years of age. He is dark and smooth shaven. He is 5 feet, 10 inches tall, and weighs about 160 pounds.

TWO CASES SENT OUT OF COUNTY

Change of Venue Granted in Suits of Blakmon and Ferguson Against Marion McCann.

TO BARTHOLOMEW FOR TRIAL

Each of Colored Men Demanded $10,- 000 for Malicious Prosecution.
Court in Library.

Two cases that promised much of interest in the circuit court, were sent from the county today by Judge Megee on changes of venue. The cases were those of William Blakmon, colored, against Marion McCann and the one of John Ferguson against McCann. The demand in both suits is $10,000 and the plaintiffs allege malicious prosecution. Both were sent to Bartholomew county.

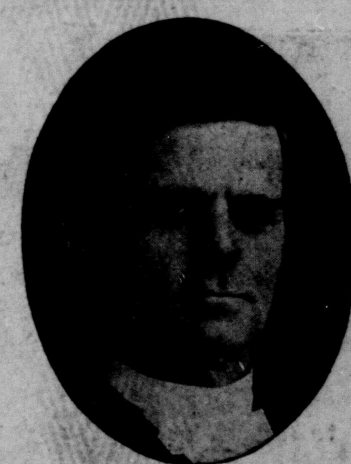

The cases were to have been tried here this term of court. Both are the outcome of blackmailing charges preferred by McCann against the two colored men. They were both acquitted of the charge and in turn filed the suits for damages against McCann. Judge Megee would like to have sent the cases to one of the neighboring counties, but each county that was suggested was not satisfactory to the attorneys and Megee sent them to Columbus. Five days are given in which to perfect the change.

The court library will soon be turned into a court room. A committee composed of Judge Sparks, A. L. Gary and Donald Smith reported favorable to Judge Megee and gave an estimate on the cost. Work has already been started in converting the room into a court room. The reason for the change is that the heating plant is undergoing some repairs and there will not be any heat in the court house until late in November, and the court room is too cold to conduct court. The library room will be overhauled and a jury box and a judge's bench installed. The room can then be used for juvenile court and in cases of emergency, will always be ready.

One new case was filed today. John Tribbey filed an injunction suit against Lark Hargrove. He alleges that he rented Hargrove a field in which to raise corn and that both were to get one-half of the crop. Tribbey alleges that Hargrove entered the field today and began cutting corn. Hargrove is alleged to have told him that he was entitled to two-thirds of the crop. He asks a temporary restraining order and ten dollars damages.

Word has been received here from Piqua, Ohio, that both Mr. and Mrs. Don Root are ill with typhoid fever. Mr. Root has been ill for over a week and it is thought that Mrs. Root contracted the disease from him.

A MURDER CAMPAIGN PLANNED BY SCHMIDT

Wanted to Do Away With the Incurably Ill.

New York, Sept. 20.—In his cell at the Tombs Hans Schmidt, the slayer of Anna Aumuller, has taken a new mental tack. He declares now that not only was he alone responsible for the killing of the girl he loved, but he had been planning to do away with the hopelessly insane, the permanently crippled and diseased incurables by poison or the knife. Furthermore, he was anxious, he said, to go to the electric chair and hoped that the district attorney would not go through a lot of unnecessary red tape to send him there. He made these statements to his lawyer, during the course of his daily chat, and to detectives who visited him for an explanation of the purpose to which he intended to put blank death certificates stolen from a doctor, which were found among his belongings.

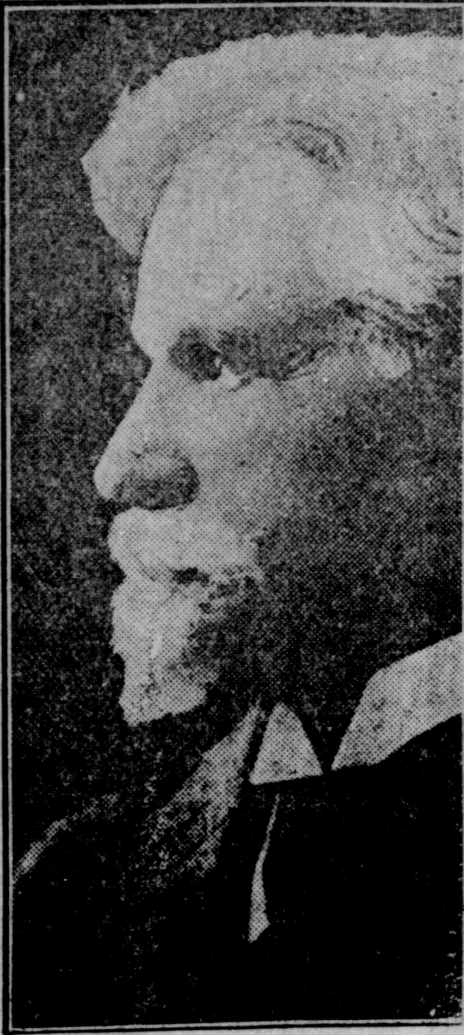

The book of certificates issued by the board of health already had convinced the men working on the strange case of Schmidt and his partner in the counterfeiting business, Ernest A. Muret, the fake dentist, that Schmidt had hit upon what he believed an easy way of getting victims under ground without exciting suspicion.

Dispatches from Constantinople, Belgrade, Salonica and Vienna indicate that it is not likely that the Balkan peace will last long.

MEXICAN SITUATION TAKING A NEW TURN

Actions of Felix Diaz Being Closely Watched.

Washington, Sept. 20.—Word from Mexico City that General Felix Diaz has been summoned back to Mexico by President Huerta is regarded by official Washington as an important development in the Mexican situation. It is now taken for granted that Huerta will endeavor to hold the elections next month, for which Diaz is the only announced candidate up to this time.

Much significance is attached to the fact that since he has been in Europe Felix Diaz has had frequent consultations with his uncle, Porfirio Diaz, the former president, now living in France.

The possibility of future complications for the United States in case General Diaz is elected president of Mexico was clearly indicated here in statements issued by the constitutional junta. It was announced that the leaders of that party regard Felix Diaz as just as objectionable to them in the presidency as General Huerta, and that should he be elected the revolution in the north will go on. Representatives of the rebels declare Diaz is just as guilty as Huerta in connection with the taking of the life of Madero, to whose memory the rebels are loyal. It is known that administration officials share the view of the Constitutionalists that Diaz was equally responsible with Huerta for the overthrow and death of Madero.

It is suggested that the United States may escape the apparent necessity of recognizing Diaz in case of his election by rejecting the methods which probably will be used in the forthcoming election. Absolute domination of the election by the Mexico City authorities is predicted.

Correspondent "Watered" Reports.

London, Sept. 20.—Stories of the "cures" at Lourdes which reached London in rapid succession in the last few days are now being as rapidly reduced to their true proportions. Later dispatches showed how one enthusiastic correspondent "watered" his previous reports, and there is every indication that whatever improvement there has been in cases of long established disease will prove to be merely temporary and more mental than physical.

PINT OF WHISKY SPURRED HIM ON

Booze Responsible for Bloomington Tragedy.

DELIRIUM CAUSED BY DRINK

Evidence Points to the Conclusion That Max Hurst, Who Blew Up His Home, Killing Himself and One Daughter, in Attempt to Wipe Out Whole Family, Had Drunk Himself Into a Frenzy of Demonic Rage.

Bloomington, Ind., Sept. 20.—Certain signs at the rear of the house which Max Hurst attempted to blow up with dynamite, and which resulted in the death of Hurst and one of his daughters and the serious injury of two other daughters, indicate that he planned the deed with some deliberation.

At the back door, where he had removed his shoes preparatory to entering the house, a pint whisky bottle was found. It had been drained of its contents, Hurst apparently having drunk the liquor in order to nerve himself for the crime.

Inside the room he had taken out his knife, split the fuse and fixed the dynamite caps. He had used a shirt to tear strips of linen with which he bound sticks of dynamite about his legs and arms. Hospital authorities say little Elizabeth Hurst probably will recover, but it is doubtful if her sister Fannie, thirteen years old, will be as fortunate.

Hurst had not been staying at home for the last three weeks. Upon entering the house that sheltered his family he laid his shoes on the steps at a back door and stole into the room where his wife usually slept, but which happened to be occupied by his daughter Maude, sixteen years old, and her younger sisters. Without investigating to see who was in the bed he lighted a fuse and threw himself across the bodies of his three daughters. The explosion blew fragments of his body through a back window and on top of a woodshed twenty feet in the rear. Another part of his body struck the ceiling and covered the wall with blood. The body of Maude Hurst, badly mutilated, was left lying on the bed. Little Fannie Hurst managed to crawl from the bed and ran out the front door into the arms of Night Officer Hinkle, who had heard the explosion from police headquarters. At the same time Mrs. Hurst and her two smaller sons crawled out of the east window and also joined the officer.

Hurst had been employed in stone mills in and around Bloomington for about twenty years. He was a good husband and father until he began drinking. During the past two years there have been many family quarrels when he was in liquor. A few days ago he drew a considerable sum of money and at once began drinking heavily. It is thought that his crime was conceived and done while he was in a delirium caused by drink.

NEW YORK'S BIGGEST CRUSH

Is Expected to Mark the Funeral of Mayor Gaynor Monday.

New York, Sept. 20.—The friends of the late Mayor Gaynor, city officials, everyone concerned with the conduct of funeral and last honors, are confronted with a problem such as was never encountered before.

More than 100,000 people have manifested a desire to march in the funeral procession next Monday morning. More than 10,000 requests have been received for seats at the funeral in old Trinity.

It has been impossible to make places for a hundredth of the people who desired personally to express the mourning of a city. Half the city wanted to show respect for Mayor Gaynor's memory by marching behind his body next Monday morning from the city hall to Trinity church. In the few blocks from the city hall south to the church there will not be room enough for 10,000, although at least 20,000 must be accommodated.

Within old Trinity less than 1,000 can be seated, made up of the family, close friends and representatives of the organizations that have named committees. There will be unquestionably a crush and crowd such as New York never saw before.

Joseph W. Folk, former governor of Missouri, has been appointed solicitor for the state department.

Hodgeville, Ky., July 15, 1913. Dr. Mayo:

My boy you treated is well, and there has not been a symptom of its return now for two years. He had catarrh and hay fever from the time he was 12 months old in a bad form. I tried all the doctors and patent medicines even to the infallible Hall's Sure Cure until I got discouraged and gave up. I was at home (Shelby Co., Ind.) and in Shelbyville in the Democrat office and inquired of you and what the people thought of your cure for chronic diseases. They said good things about you. So I sent for your remedy. The above statement is the result. Sir, I want to thank you with a God bless you for wisdom and skill.

ESTATE HINGED ON FINE POINT

Which of Crossing Victims Was Killed First?

COURT DECIDES THE QUESTION

An Interesting Complication Arose in Connection With the Disposition of the Valuable Farm Owned by Mr. and Mrs. William Waltz of Hamilton County, Who Recently Were Killed in an Automobile Accident.

Noblesville, Ind., Sept. 20.—Mrs. William Waltz, who was killed near this city last week when an interurban car struck the automobile in which she was riding, lived two minutes longer than her husband, who was also killed. An eighty-acre farm owned by Mr. and Mrs. Waltz and valued at $12,000, will go to Mrs. George Noble, a daughter of Mrs. Waltz by a former marriage.

The fine point was raised when the Wainwright Trust company of this city was appointed administrator of the estate of Mrs. Waltz. The deed to the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Waltz was joint and in the event one had died before the other, the property would have gone to the surviving person, according to law. In the common acceptance of the term both were killed at the same time, but Dr. Hershey and Dr. Cotton, who were the first physicians to reach the scene of the accident, assert that Mrs. Waltz survived her husband two minutes. It is alleged that this would make her sole heir to the property and that at her death it went to Mrs. Noble, to the exclusion of Henry Waltz and Peter D. Waltz, brothers of Mr. Waltz. Mr. and Mrs. Waltz had no children.

FALLS FROM PARACHUTE

Shocking Accident at Village Fair Witnessed by Hundreds.

South Bend, Ind., Sept. 20.—Performing unusual antics in the parachute of a balloon, 200 feet in the air, Frank Adkins, twenty-eight years old, of Vincennes, Ind., fell and will probably die. The accident occurred at the annual fair held in Lakeville.

Adkins suffered a broken shoulder, several broken ribs and was internally injured. He is now in the South Bend hospital and has slim chances for recovery. Several hundred people witnessed the accident. It was noticed that Adkins had taken unusual risks, and it appeared as if he made a misstep and fell headforemost.

THEY TOOK THINGS TO HEART

Two Young People at Elkhart Try Suicide For Trivial Causes.

Elkhart, Ind., Sept. 20.—Oris Fouts, seventeen years old, high school student, shot himself in the temple because his mother strongly opposed his expressed intention of going to South America.

Miss Gertrude Conklin, eighteen years old, shot herself with a revolver because her mother refused to allow her to attend a local theater. She was removed to the hospital and may recover.

Fatal Fall From Trestle.

Mt. Vernon, Ind., Sept. 20.—William Thayer, aged twenty-two, a riverman, fell off the C. & E. I. trestle here and was instantly killed. Thayer attempted to cross the long trestle and when about the middle, it is presumed he became overbalanced and fell. His neck was broken.

Says Social Service Is Fruit of Religion

REV. JOSHUA STANSFIELD.

The Rev. Mr. Stansfield is pastor of the Meridian Street church, Indianapolis. He sounded a note of warning in his address yesterday on, "The Church and Social Service," against so much preaching on social service, which, he said, is not Christianity, but the fruits of it.

U. S. MAKES WAR ON HOG CHOLERA

Campaign Against Spread of Disease Is Begun.

THREE COUNTIES CHOSEN.

Experts of United States Bureau of Animal Industry Concentrate Efforts in Centers Where Dread Malady Was Most Prevalent in Three States. $75,000 Appropriated.

Work by experts of the United States bureau of animal industry to check the spread of hog cholera throughout the country has begun. The three counties chosen, where experiments will be made during the next two years, for which purpose $75,000 was appropriated by congress, are Dallas in Iowa, Montgomery in Indiana and Pettis in Missouri.

In the last named county alone experts estimate that hog cholera cost the farmers $200,000 last year. As the work of prevention is already well under way, however, it is believed that the loss this year will be negligible by comparison.

The entire work is under the supervision of Dr. W. B. Niles of Ames, Ia., superintendent of hog cholera suppression work in the United States. Local headquarters have been established in each of the counties named under the direction of competent experts, who will conduct the campaign against the spread of the dread disease, reporting daily the progress made to Dr. Niles.

Will Take a Hog Census.

It is the intention to make a hog survey of each county and card index every farm. A preliminary examination developed that cholera existed in nearly every township. No claims are made for curing the disease, the principal intent being to prevent its spread. Wherever the affliction is found extreme measures are taken. In this the veterinarians are aided greatly by the stringent laws governing hog cholera passed in each state last year.

Police authority is vested in the veterinary department, and violations of the regulations are punishable by heavy fines. The United States officials have been designated as state deputies and thus are empowered to act as they may desire to stamp out the plague.

Preventive inoculation measures are being taken. The "serum alone" or "simultaneous" is used on all infected farms and also on adjoining premises. All farms where the disease makes its appearance are disinfected and thoroughly cleaned and the carcasses of all diseased hogs burned.

The serum used is manufactured by the government at Ames, Ia., and is shipped to the local headquarters in the different counties fresh each day. No commercial serums are used. The work is done without charge to the farmers.

Restrictive Regulations.

Among the restrictive regulations which are being enforced in the campaign are prevention of shipment from diseased herds, the quarantining and placarding of infected farms, permitting introduction of new animals from without experimental area only under quarantine restrictions, restrictions at fairs and shows, cleaning up of stockyards and prevention of reinfestation, disinfecting of corn, prohibiting driving of hogs on public highways, compulsory report of outbreaks of cholera, compulsory "serum alone" or "simultaneous" treatment within the discretion of federal officers, prohibiting "simultaneous" inoculation or use of virus in any form except under state or federal authority and compulsory destruction of dead hogs.

Government experts estimate the loss to the country through hog cholera last year at from $80,000,000 to $90,000,000. They point out that once the stock raisers can be convinced that the disease can be eliminated by prompt and efficient effort they will pay more attention to hogs, and this will result in a larger production each year and a consequent reduction in the price of pork and pork products to the consumer.

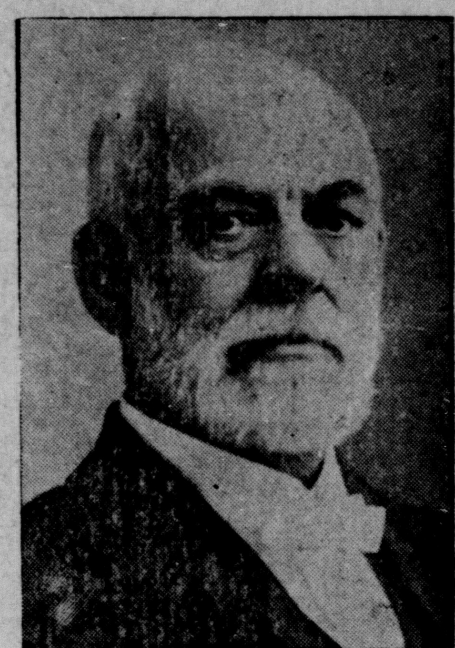

FARMERS ARE INSTRUCTED.

Chautauquas Highly Important Agency in Spread of Knowledge.

Chautauquas have become a highly important agency in the teaching of agriculture, declares the United States bureau of education in its annual review of agricultural instruction, just made public. The bureau finds that "each year the Chautauqua movement becomes a more decided factor in the education of the farmer. The programs, which in the early history of the movement consisted principally of Bible study and recreation, have been considerably broadened, and special features with farm life are becoming more popular and more frequent. It is now a common occurrence to find these programs offering courses in stock judging, poultry raising, soils, seed testing, household economy, etc."

More than 500 local Chautauquas were held in the past season in Nebraska, Iowa, Illinois, Kansas and Missouri, according to the bureau, more than 100 being held in towns with an average population of only 500. The farmers' grange also is said to have become a prominent factor in the education of rural districts.

The Rev. Mr. Poucher is pastor of the church at Petersburg. He introduced resolutions at the conference calling for a radical change in the naming of standing committees and a committee was appointed to investigate and report next year.

GARRISON TO FIGHT THAT COMMITMENT

Imprisoned Legislator Will Test Its Validity.

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 20.—Albany county's sheriff, into whose custody James C. Garrison was delivered by Sergeant-at-Arms Betts of the state assembly after he had been adjudged in contempt by the assembly, is applying the rigid discipline of the Albany county penitentiary to Garrison.

Garrison has been one of the most active and daring of the governor's press agents, and in his newspaper capacity has made public several vitriolic statements reflecting upon the members of the legislature and others in political life.

Garrison is determined to make a desperate fight to test the validity of the assembly's commitment confining him to jail. His counsel has spent some hours going over his case with him. Even counsel for Governor Sulzer admitted that Garrison had a poor case in the face of precedent and intimated that the governor would not institute proceedings seeking the release of Garrison.

Garrison is apparently undisturbed while talking to his friends. He says he is determined to test the validity of the assembly warrant.

Also Tried to Kill Wife.

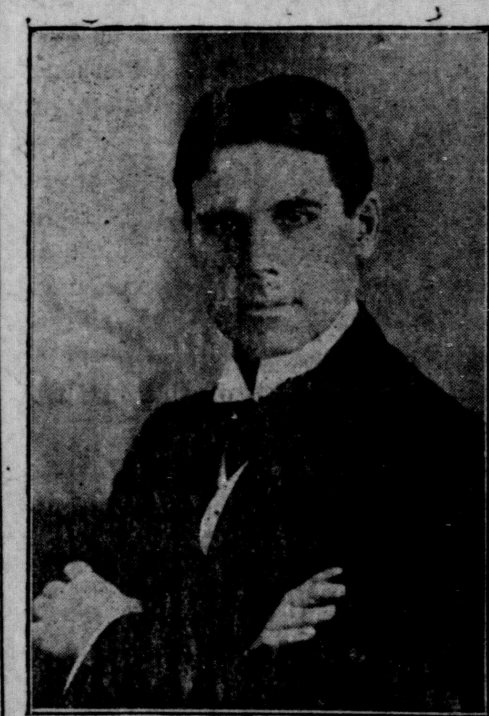

Richmond, Ind., Sept. 20.—An investigation of the suicide of Harry Hart, aged forty, indicates that he was deranged, his actions for several days causing comment. He was married two months ago at Dayton. When on the street with his wife he attempted to slash her throat with a razor, but police interference saved the woman from serious injury. When struggling with the police Hart took a bottle of poison from his pocket and despite efforts of the police, he drank a sufficient quantity to cause his death.

No More Class Fights.

Lafayette, Ind., Sept. 20.—Following the coroner's verdict that the death of F. W. Ochenshain of South Whitley, Ind., a Purdue student, was due to heart trouble brought on by excitement incident to the annual "tank scrap" on the Purdue campus last night, the faculty announces that there will be no more class fights.

Economy of Advertising.

Some people seem to think that much of the money spent in advertising is wasted. But does it seem likely that the business men of the United States would spend their billions in this way unless it produced returns?

The simple truth is that advertising is the least expensive form of salesmanship. To send a man around to canvass for your goods the people who read this newspaper, would cost a hundred or more times as much as the price of an advertisement in the newspaper.

And the canvasser would not get as good results as the newspaper ad brings. He would find half his "prospects" out. Three-quarters of the rest would give him no serious attention, because when he called they would be busy about other matters.

The newspaper is picked up when people are at leisure. They read it advertising as carefully as any part of the paper, and what the merchant says is given thoughtful attention.

The railroad wrecks will continue as long as everyone is willing to loaf around an hour in order to get a train that will make 15 minutes better time.

TO PROMOTE IDEAS OF THE BISHOP

Wives of Ministers of Indiana Conference Form Association For City Evangelization.

OFFICERS ARE ELECTED

Thirty-two wives of ministers of the Indiana M. E. conference met at the St. Paul church parsonage yesterday afternoon and formed an association which the wife of every minister in the district will be asked to join. Mrs. W. F. Anderson of Cincinnati, wife of the bishop, presided.

One of the objects of the organization is to promote good feeling among the wives of the ministers and to bring them in closer relationship. The wives of the district superintendents will act as an advisory board. The prime purpose of the organization is to co-operate with Bishop Anderson in furthering his ideas on city evangelization in the residential district, which he believes is the great problem of the district.

Officers for the year were elected as follows: Mrs. M. B. Hyde of Greensburg, president; Mrs. C. E. Asbury of Indianapolis, vice-president; Mrs. H. C. Clippinger of New Albany secretary and Mrs. Samuel H. Caylor of Indianapolis, treasurer. The wives of the Northeast Ohio district ministers formed a similar organization last week.

a larger field in the social problem than legislation; larger than mass meetings, petitions or even the ballot box. The demand of the hour, he said, was the introduction not only of the Christian code into social relations, but of the regenerative power of the Holy Ghost. Dr. Hill asserted the problem couldn't be solved by materialism, because the proposition to destroy private property and to make the condition of men equal is Eutopian.

Neither can the social problem be solved by socialism, he declared. Socialism, he declared, is a combination of agnosticism, materialism and apism in all its fifty-seven varieties. The present civil state, he pointed out, is built about the home and a restraint is thrown about the majority to protect the individual and minority, but the Socialist state repudiates the attitude of the civil state toward the home and holds the sex relations depend on the individual whim as does any other human instinct. Dr. Hill quoted Socialist writers to show the utter disrespect in the doctrine of womanhood. He pointed out that Socialism says there are no rights except those forced by the majority. If this nation were ruled by the majority, he declared, civilization would be a black, seething abyss. Socialism, he added, is an irresistible march against state, home, family, church, school house and court house. The Socialist party, he declared, is not a party of reform, but of revolution.

Dr. Hill said the attitude of Socialism is not in harmony with the Christian religion. It would change conditions, he declared, and put in vogue what Socialists call economic determination. This defines religion, he asserted, as dependent on economic principles and takes no account of the spiritual factor. It excludes the Bible and hoots at it as a concoction of a disordered mind.

"No word of revolution escapes the lips of Jesus Christ," said Dr. Hill. "He came to fulfill, not to destroy. He paid his taxes without a protest. Did he tell the young man to give away his holdings? No. He told him to sell them. The Socialist condemns the rich man to hell because he is rich. Poverty is no mark of piety. Were it so many of us would be sanctified. Riches are no insignia of evil. Were they, most of us could never be bad no matter how we try."

"Under the Socialist's determinism," he said in concluding, "the economic rather than the spiritual is the determining element, and this is false to history, experience and philosophy. Jesus settles this in a sentence: 'That which is born of the flesh is flesh, that which is born of the spirit is spirit; ye must be born again.' Here we have the dividing line between Socialism and Christianity. Socialism says economic determinism. Jesus Christ says regeneration. Socialism says: 'Fix up a man from the outside; paint him whitewash him.' Christianity says: 'Save him from within; regenerate him; revolutionize him; wash him white.' Socialism says: 'Save him through his environment.' Christianity says: 'Save the environment through him.' Christianity begins within and works out; Socialism begins away out there and never gets in; that is the difference between the two."

At the Pastoral Problem Hour yesterday afternoon the Rev. W. B. Farmer of Evansville spoke on the subject, "Organizing a Church for Efficient Service." He said the growth of men's Bible classes was evidence that organization is reaching the people. He declared that from method the church got its name and that from method the church gridded the globe. Organization isn't everything, the Rev. Mr. Farmer said, but it is very much.

He cited four relative purposes of organization; advancing the cause of Christianity, social service, evangelizing the community and that the church may be a working unit. He said that any pastor can be an evangelist. Mr. Farmer declared organization makes men feel they are a wheel in the machinery of the church.

The Rev. Mr. Farmer made a number of suggestions for church organization. He asserted that the minister must be familiar with his field and displayed a map a circuit preacher had made so as to keep in touch with the condition. We can wear hand-me-down clothes, Mr. Farmer asserted, but we can't use hand-me-down ideas on folks.

The minister exhorted the members of the Indiana conference to train the children and the young people that they may grow into the work of the church. He urged the preachers to stir up their membership to prevent church suicide. He pointed out that the ministers should pay strict attention to the tender ministries of the work. He said, of course, there should be the committee on finance and added that the committee on social and spiritual work should be one. He said young people should be taught to know that the two go hand in hand.

"If chautauquas are good things," he continued, "why not bring some of those things into the church instead of lambasting the young people for going to moving picture shows? The shame of Methodism today is that with all the evangelization of the past, we are left without a plan for evangelizing our own congregations."

He admonished the ministers to think of their successors and not their predecessors. He said the charge should not be viewed as in the condition in which it was given, but should be thought of as in the way it would be passed on to the next.

The Rev. Joshua Stansfield of the Meridian Street church, Indianapolis, who spoke on "The Church and Social Service," created a profound stir among the ministers when he sounded a note of warning concerning the trend toward social service. He declared this was not Christianity. The address was the one the Rev. Mr. Stansfield was to have given Thursday.

"Christianity is the experiencing of God in human life," he declared. "Christ is the humanest bit of humanity the world ever knew and Christianity is the continuation of Christ on earth. The church is the body through which Christ does things."

"This experiencing of Christ, which is Christianity, has shown itself in different ways in successive ages. It is the same today as it ever was, only there is more of it. In this age, which is said to be so Godless, we have the best Christianity the world has ever known. and it will get better because the world has ever known. And it will get better because the world has been redeemed. The Gospel is not waning; Christianity is not weakening; the divine experience in life is not growing less. What characterizes the age? The spirit of Christ. It has shown itself through its body, the church."

"For the last 25 or 30 years the church has been the most human that it has ever been. The brainiest men in Christianity have devoted themselves to conservation, not of natural resources, not to whether we shall build one or two battle ships, but to the conservation of the people. More civic and reform organizations have been formed in the last 25 years than in the 20 centuries preceding."

"All features of social service are not Christianity. They are the fruits of it. I warn the Methodists ministers of Indiana and of the United States that they should beware of and remember this. I challenge any man to show me in the New Testament where the humane principles are magnified. The miracles of Jesus were incidental. The danger of the modern church today is in emphasizing too much the fruits of Christianity and failing to preach the Scripture. We are lost in the modern church in making both ends meet."

"There will be no more social service if we do not preach Christ and the Resurrection for the fruit will disappear with the foundation of it. It is not how much we shall raise for benevolences, not how much for this eleemosynary institution, not how much this or that man will give, but the supreme need of Methodism in Indiana and elsewhere is the return to the preaching of Christianity. All of these fruits are all right, but the parent must not be lost sight of."

"I was astonished when I heard that over $19,000 had been raised for benevolences, yet the number of conversions was not given. You can find men who think in millions and will give you a thousand dollars, men of the professions who will give freely of their services, but will they help you save a soul?"

Dr. Perry E. Powell, Supreme Merlin, Knights of the Holy Grail, spoke on the topic, "The Way to a Boy's Heart." He declared that there are six sides to a boy's nature: he is solitary, social, heroic, chivalrous, mystic and religious. He said there were women's aid societies and home and foreign missionary societies, but there were not organizations to take the men, especially the young men. He declared the church had neglected them, but that they were beginning to have their inning.

Dr. Powell said there were the pre-adolescent, early adolescent and later adolescent period in a boy's life, and that the mistake of many organizations was that they were all jammed together. He pointed out that the Knights of the Holy Grail provided for the three ages of the young with the ranks of Pages, Esquires and Knights. Dr. Powell said the Knights of the Holy Grail had existed in some form or other since Christ came. He said this organization would solve the question of how to keep boys 15 and 16 years of age in the church and Sunday school. He explained the workings of the organization and told of the success he had had in working with boys in Indiana.

Dr. S. H. Kirkbride, secretary of the Chicago agency of the American Bible Society, said the society was organized in 1816 to do the work of all Christian churches. He said over 400,000,000 Bibles in 110 different languages had been circulated by the society last year. Dr. Kirkbride declared the Bible to be the greatest force in Christianity and the American Bible Society to be the greatest missionary agency in the world. The value of the society to missionaries, he declared, lies in the fact that the society has furnished the Bible in all tongues for their use.

"Do you appreciate what it means," he asked, "to give these heathen people the word of God? The souls of many nations have been won by Jesus Christ because the pioneers of each gave their nation the word of God in their native tongue. Not enough missionaries can be found to go to China and we are sowing it with Bibles. We put a million there the first six months of this year."

Dr. Kirkbride said 536 peoples had been given the Bible in their native tongue by the society and there are still 400 more people who have not the Bible in their language and know not what it is. He said the society was furnishing the Bible free to 130 institutions and that 85,000 had been sent out from the Chicago office last year.

Dr. Frank B. Stockdale, at the Hour of Phrophecy and Preaching yesterday afternoon, said that men do not realize their size in the world because they are not accustomed to thinking in comparisons. He speaks each afternoon.

The anniversary of the Board of Claimants was not celebrated yesterday afternoon because the secretary, Dr. Joseph B. Hingley, of Chicago, did not arrive.

SANDUSKY MAYOR IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Runs Machine Into Horse After Colliding With Bull—Necessary to Kill Animal

OCCUPANTS ESCAPE INJURY

Alva Reed, proprietor of a general store in Sandusky and known familiarly as the Mayor of Sandusky, accidentally drove his car into a horse hitched to a buggy in which Dan Davern and wife were riding, last evening, and as a result of the collision, the horse sustained two broken legs and had to be killed, says the Greensburg News. Mr. Reed's machine turned turtle and despite the fact that he was buried under the car Mr. Reed escaped any injury.

The accident was one of those unavoidable ones that are not uncommon. Mr. Reed was going down a hill near the residence of Noah Dashiell. His power had been cut off and about at the foot of the incline, he struck a bull that was in the road. The left front wheel of the car struck the stubborn animal, and as the bull dashed aside, the car was thrown to the side of the road and directly into the horse of Mr. Davern, who with his wife were enroute to Greensburg.

The condition of Mrs. May Donnan of Indianapolis, well known to Rushville people, remains critical and little improvement is noted. Mrs. Donnan is suffering with pneumonia.

From the applause, it seemed that the conference favored the admission of Mr. Hartsaw regardless of the fact that he did not meet the requirements. The Rev. W. H. Wylie of the Rushville church said that he knew Mr. Hartsaw and knew that he was capable, but he said he had noted that many capable young men who were attending theological schools or had been graduated were slipping away from the Indiana conference. He declared the reason for this condition to be that the conference was filled with men who were taken in before they met the requirements.

Dr. F. A. Steele, superintendent of the Jeffersonville district, declared that the theological graduates and students would not take the kind of charges Mr. Hartsaw held and would not do the work on the salary they offered. The conference finally voted unanimously to admit Mr. Hartsaw on trial for one year.

After the vote had been taken, Bishop Anderson called attention to the fact that the general conference had recommended that men entering the annual conferences should have a college and seminary course. Bishop Anderson said the conference should realize that the general conference was seeking to raise gradually the standard and urged that this case not be made an example for others to gain admission to the conference.

Walter D. Miles was admitted on trial to the Vincennes district. He is a graduate of Moores Hill and has had a year's work in Boston seminary.

Harry R. Glick, a sophomore at Moores Hill, was admitted to the Jeffersonville district. It was announced he intended to go to Boston seminary.

Walter M. Briggs and Howard Patterson were admitted on trial to the Indianapolis district. Mr. Briggs has had three years' work in Garrett Theological Institute at Evanston, Ill., and Bishop Anderson ruled that this was equivalent to a course of study for a local preacher.

A question was raised over the admission of Mr. Patterson because he has had but one year in high school. He was so highly recommended by the district superintendent, L. C. Bentley, that it was passed as an exceptional case and he was admitted.

William W. Simmonds and Harry O. Simmonds were admitted on trial to the Evansville district.

Walter B. Collier, pastor on the Brownsville circuit, although there was the question of his eligibility raised, was admitted on trial on the recommendation of Dr. V. W. Tevis, superintendent of this district. The report showed he had had one year in high school and one year in college, and that he intended to attend college later.

Because he is thirty-six years old and has a family, some ministers objected on the grounds that he would never attend college, because of his age and conditions, and that he was unqualified for admission, but supporters declared that he would do what he said he would.

Dr. Tevis, in advocating his admittance, said it had been stated on the floor of the conference that college graduates were slipping away from the conference because the charges were filled with men of this type, but he declared that college graduates would not have the sort of charges Mr. Collier was filling, that they always wanted from $800 to $1,000 a year to begin. Dr. Tevis said he began at $300 a year and thought he was in heaven. The Rev. J. H. Doddridge took issue with Dr. Tevis. He said he was a college graduate and the first charge he had only paid $80 a year.

At this point business was suspended briefly and Dr. John W. Hill was introduced. He discussed the questions before the conference and declared there was some difference between going through universities and having them go through you. He said eight of nine went through Abraham Lincoln, but that he never went through any. He declared his father had more of the spirit of the Holy Ghost than 300 modern theological institutes, and after the applause bowed himself out, fearing to proceed, he said, for fear he could not say anything else that was as popular.

Dr. Frank B. Stockdale, the lecturer at the Hour of Prophecy and preaching each afternoon, declared that he never had a college education, but that it was very valuable. He said he would be willing to have his head shaved five times a day for a long period of time if he had a college education.

D. C. N. Wade of the North Indiana, W. B. Collins of the Detroit, Dr. D. M. Elsworth of the North Indiana, Dr. E. O. Burg, one time of the Southeast Indiana and Dr. V. W. Bunden of the Kentucky conferences were introduced.

The chairman of the Board of Stewards said the board recommended an assessment of six and a half per cent for the year, which is not an increase, although one was suggested. The half cent is used to pay the expense of the Preachers' Aid and Veterans' Home society.

E. A. Hartsaw, Charles J. Gabraith and Arthur Dougherty were elected local elders. Walter M. Briggs was elected Deacon under the seminary rules. Gorge E. Bennett was elected to Elder's Orders.

There was some discussion over the election of Mr. Gabraith. The Rev. D. L. Thomas of Seymour declared that it came to him indirectly that Mr. Gabraith proposed to be ordained in the conference and then preach for the Holiness association. He said Mr. Gabraith's wife and parents were members of this religious sect. Former pastors of Mr. Gabraith testified to his sincerity in regard to Methodism and the conference ordained him.

The committee on conference relations reported there were sixty-six on the retired preachers' list. As their names were called, some of them responded to the request to speak. Dr. Lathrope, age eighty-eight, of Greensburg, the oldest pastor in the conference, spoke briefly. Dr. M. B. Hyde, his pastor, said that Dr. Lathrope attended church regularly in fair or foul weather. The chairman of the committee reported the Rev. O. E. Bateheler, H. S. Heaton and E. L. Hutchins had changed from supernumary to effective relations.

Bishop Anderson said he was presiding over a colored conference in Mississippi recently and he found on the record where one pastor had been changed from the supernumary to the superlative relations, and he presumed that was the relation of Dr. Lathrope.

Bishop Anderson announced the Revs. W. B. Farmer of Evansville, J. T. Seull, Jr., of College Corner, Ohio, and E. A. Robertson of Corydon to places on the board of examiners to fill terms which had expired.

The conference relations committee announced the Rev. G. E. Floyd had changed from effective to supernumary relations and that the Revs. R. H. Moore, J. L. Petry and E. H. Wood had retired. Resolutions on their retirement were read and adopted by the conference.

Drs. J. D. Trimble and E. I. Ford talked to the conference for an hour before the noon adjournment on the new finance plan the church is adopting everywhere.

Injured in Runaway.

Mrs. Ed Hood and daughter, Miss Edna, of near Raleigh, were painfully hurt last evening when the horse they were driving frightened at a motorcycle and threw them from the buggy. Both sustained numerous bruises but no bones were broken. The horse ran for about a quarter of a mile after throwing them out and demolished the buggy.

THE ISLAND OF THE STAIRS

Being a True Account of Certain Strange and Wonderful Adventures of Master John Hampdon,
Seaman, and Mistress Lucy Wilberforce, Gentlewoman, In the Great South Seas.

By CYRUS TOWNSEND BRADY

Copyright, 1912, by Cyrus Townsend Brady

"I am a seafaring man, as you know, mistress," said I humbly, "and I am accustomed to study maps and charts

"It is an island!" she exclaimed.

Perhaps this may contain information vital to your fortunes which I can decipher more easily than another."

She nodded and went rapidly out of the room. In a few moments she came back with another piece of parchment. I placed them side by side, and the torn and jagged edges fitted into each other perfectly. I had laid them on a table and we bent over them in great excitement—excitement on my part caused by her proximity rather than by the faded, yellow sheepskin.

"It is an island!" she exclaimed.
"Yes," said I.
"Where is it?" she asked.
I pointed with my huge index finger to the figures in the upper left hand corner and the upper right hand corner marked respectively latitude and longitude.

"That will tell us exactly."
"And you can find it?"
"If it is there where the figures say I can as easily as I can find the park gate yonder."

She looked at me with a certain amount of awe. "Why, that is wonderful!" she exclaimed.

"Not at all. It is done by seamen every day."

"Have you ever been there?"
"No," said I. "I have crossed the south seas several times, but I have never chanced upon that island or, in fact, sailed anywhere near that latitude or longitude."

"But you know where it is?"
"Exactly, and if I had my great chart of the south seas here I could put my finger upon it and show it to you."

"What," she asked, pointing with her own dainty finger in her turn, "is that ring around the island?"

"That will be a coral reef, I take it. They usually are broken at some point so that ships can sail within, but here is a complete circle inclosing the island. There seems to be no entrance anywhere. 'Tis unusual and most strange."

"Perhaps the man that drew it made a mistake."

"I think not. The map has been made by a seafaring man, that is plain."

"I see, and the island itself is a circle," she said, bending to inspect it more closely.

"Yes," said I, "and it is like no island that I have ever seen, for here be two great rings like a gigantic wall and a hill or something of the sort in the middle." I bent lower over it in my turn. My eyes are unusually keen, and I saw a word written on the outside of the island proper and between it and the coral reef. "See," said I, "the word 'Stairs!'"

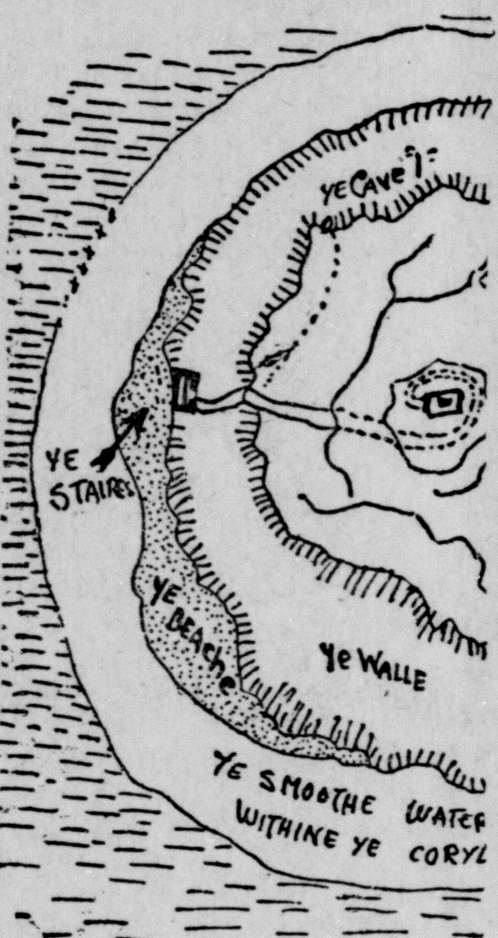

"Stairs!" exclaimed the girl in amazement. "Did you ever see stairs on an island?"

"No, I have not, but these may be some natural means of ascent."

"It is most strange and meaningless," she said. "You have been a faithful ful, devoted servitor, Master Hampdon, and I have no hesitation in telling you all I know. My mother and father were distant relatives—that is, they were descendants in the fifth generation from two brothers."

"Exactly," said I. "Your father's note says this parchment has been in his possession for five generations, and evidently it was in the possession of your mother's people for the same time. Who was the father of these two brothers?"

She thought a moment.
"Sir Philip Wilberforce was his name. He was—"

"A sailor!" I exclaimed.
"Yes, he voyaged in distant seas in Queen Elizabeth's time. Geoffrey and Oliver, his sons, quarrelled over his property after his death, and—"

"There you have it. They divided his fortune and tore the parchment apart, it being thought valuable for some reason and each kept half."

"That is the tradition as regards the fortune, and it may account for the parchment."

"What next, madam?"

"The families drifted apart and gradually died out until Sir Geoffrey and my mother were alone left of their respective lines, and without knowing the relationship they met and married and I"—she faltered and put her hand over her face—"am the only one left of the family, of either branch."

"Now, here," said I, devoutly, for I fully believed what I said, "are the workings of Divine Providence. The parchment came from old Sir Philip, it was torn by his sons and the pieces came not together until in you the ancient lines were united."

"Yes, but what does it mean?" she asked, turning to the table again. "There is writing on the back."

CHAPTER IV.

Wherein We Decide to Go Voyaging.

"LET'S put the two pieces together and take them to the light and see if we cannot decipher it," said I. "Mistress Wilberforce," I continued, "I have the sailor's premonition that we are on the track of something that will greatly better your fortunes." And I read:

"In ye years of our Lorde 1595 I, Philip Wilberforce, Bt., of ye county of Devon, being ye captain of ye good shippe Scourge of Malice, didde take ye grate Spanishe galleon Nuestra Senora de la Concepcion, after a bloudie encountre, wherein mine own shippe was sunke. Ye lading of ye galleon was worthe muche monie.

millions of pounds esterling, I take ye. Withe manie Jewelles and stones of price, pieces of eight and bullione, together with silkes and spicerie. Being blowne to ye southe and weste manie days in a grate tempeste, ye galleon was caste awaye on Ye Ilande of ye Staires. Wee landed ye tresor and hidde yt in ye walle. Alle my menne being in ye ende dead ye natives came over ye seas in their grate canoes and tooke me, being like a madde manne. Goddie mercifullie preserving my life, I escaped frome themm and at last am come safe intoe mine owne sweet lande of Englande once more. Toe find ye mouthe of ye tresor cave, take a bearing alonge ye southe of ye three Goddes on ye Altar of Skulles on ye middell hille of ye Ilande. Where ye line strykes ye knicke in ye walle with ye bigge pamme tree bee three hoals. Climbe ye stones, enter ye center one. Yt is there. Lette him that wille seek and finde."

When I had finished reading we both stopped and stared. There was much in it, of course, that we could not possibly understand. We could only comprehend it fully if we were lucky enough to stand beside the "Stone Gods" on the island itself. Still the general purport was sufficiently clear. Sir Philip Wilberforce had evidently concealed a very considerable treasure there. If we could find it our fortunes would be made, or hers, rather, for I swear I never thought of myself at all.

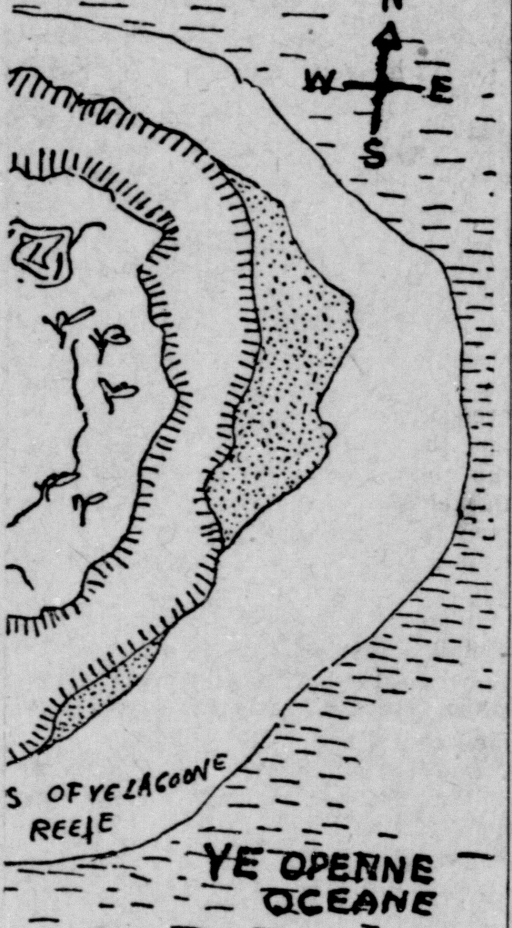

"Think you," my little mistress began at last, her pale face flushing for the first time, her bosom heaving quickly, "that the treasure may still be there?"

"Who can tell?" I answered. "The island may have remained unvisited since Sir Philip's day."

"But would treasure last so long?"

"Stored in a cave gold and silver would last forever. Everything else would have rotted away probably."

"How could we get there?" she asked.
"If you had a ship," said I, "well; commanded and founded and manned you could reach the spot without difficulty."

"How much would it cost?"

Well, I quickly and roughly estimated in my mind the necessary outlay. Such a vessel as she would require might be bought for perhaps £2,500 or £3,000. Provisioning and outfitting, together with the pay of the officers and the crew, would require perhaps £1,500 or £2,000 more, or a total between five and six thousand pounds. And she had but two! I was about to tell her the prohibitive truth when the solution of the problem suddenly came to me. In one way or another I had saved up or earned by trading and one or two adventures in which I had taken part something over £4,000, which was safely lodged to my credit in a London bank.

"I should think," I said slowly, "that £2,000 would be ample to cover everything."

"Ah," she said, "exactly the sum that Master Ficklin said was left of my mother's fortune."

"Yes," said I, and then I added in duty bound, "But you surely would not be so foolish, Mistress Wilberforce, as to risk your all in this wild goose chase?"

"If you were in my position, Master Hampdon, what would you do?"

"I am a man," I answered, "accustomed to shift for myself. I might take a risk which I would not advise you to essay."

"I must shift for myself, too," she said, her eyes sparkling. The Goddess Chance, which had ruined her father, was evidently jogging her elbow. "Indeed, I shall take the chance," she persisted.

"But you could easily live on £2,000 for a long while," I urged, against my wish, for I was keen to go a treasure hunting with her for a shipmate.

"Not such life as I crave. If I cannot have enough for my desires I would be worse off had I nothing."

Interesting Contention Raised in the Sulzer Case.

ARGUMENTS NOT CONCLUDED

Preliminary Skirmish in Great Legal Battle Which Has Begun in New York State Over the Impeachment of Governor Sulzer Was Suspended Today, but Will Be Resumed Monday With Probably Added Vigor.

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 20.—All day yesterday heavy legal artillery rumbled at the Sulzer trial. The governor was beaten in the morning on his contention that Senators Frawley, Ramsperger and Sanner should be expelled from the court because they are members of the Frawley committee, and Senator Wagner because he would step into the lieutenant governor's shoes if Mr. Sulzer were removed.

In the afternoon Louis Marshall of New York got half way through his emphatic argument for the dismissal of the case on the ground that the assembly in an extraordinary session that was not called for that purpose had no impeaching power. He will continue at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon, when the court reconvenes. At that hour also the hundred witnesses called for and against William Sulzer must present themselves. Probably, however, taking of testimony will not begin before Tuesday afternoon or perhaps Wednesday. Many hours of debate will precede it. Alton B. Parker will answer Louis Marshall. D. Cady Herrick and Austen G. Fox for the defense will challenge the impeachment articles themselves and try to have articles Nos. 1, 2 and 6 expunged—those which accuse the governor of falsifying his campaign statement.

It was presiding Judge Cullen who really determined that the Frawley committee senators and Senator Wagner were legitimate members of the court. D. Cady Herrick earnestly marshalled his arguments for the right to challenge these men. Admitting the precedents were against him, he said that the precedents were wrong—that this court should set a new one. Judge Parker, who replied, peered into history in recalling impeachment trials wherein challenges had been of no avail.

Louis Marshall's speech, filled though it was with exhaustive recitations of ancient and modern court decisions, held the attention of the laymen and women in the galleries.

Shutting himself off from everyone but the immediate members of his household and his counsel, Governor Sulzer has entered upon a period of seclusion in the executive mansion. His doings are shielded by those who are near him. The attendant at the mansion who answers the telephone and the doorman has been silenced by Governor Sulzer himself. He cannot even say whether or not the governor is in or out of town. Governor Sulzer himself insists upon this policy of silence on the part of his household, while he himself is adhering closely to the rule of silence imposed upon him by Judge D. Cady Herrick, his chief counsel.

After a day spent in conference, Governor Sulzer reached the decision to throw up the reins of state government and recognize the claims of Acting Governor Glynn. After he had consented to do this he decided to lock himself up in the People's house. He believes it better now not to see even his friends, for fear he might say something that would hurt his case.

Storm Buggies that Are Built to Suit You and of material that will give the best of road service. That is the kind we have on our sample floor for you to look at and it is your fault if you do not see them. They are three inches wider on the seat than any other sliding door storm buggy you will find and they are one of the neatest, well proportioned vehicles ever built. They are built to our own special specifications and are built for solid comfort and long wear. They are so proportioned that they do not have that too heavy appearance that so many storm buggies have, and it would be almost impossible to upset one of them.

We also have a nice line of Storm Buggies for the young folk—not so wide, you know, as they don't need the room—and in fact we can show you a storm buggy to fill your requirements, if it is built, as we have every style that is on the market and at prices that will pay you to investigate.

RUSHVILLE TO FACE FAST TEAM

Connersville Will Present Best Line up in Effort to Capture First Game of Series.

ARCADIANS ARE CONFIDENT

Vedder Will be on Mound and Should Give Grays a Battle—
Large Crowd Going.

The big game of the season is set for tomorrow at Connersville when the Arcadians and the Grays meet in the first game of a series. With favorable weather a large crowd will accompany the local team and will pull for a Rushville victory. The Arcadians will use the regular line up with Vedder in the box. The team will face the Connersville aggregation as follows: Mattern, catcher; Vedder, pitcher; Bridgeman, first; Cook, second; Aug, third; Valentine, short; Pierce, left; Tompkins, center, and Yazel or Jones, right.

The fans are assured a real game as both teams are out to win and with Cooley in the box for Connersville the Arcadians will not have easy sailing. Cooley has always been a hard man for Rushville to beat. Concerning the game the Connersville Examiner says in part as follows:

The fans are anxiously awaiting this contest and an unusually large crowd is expected. Captain Feigert has announced that there will be little change in the line-up for this game and he has selected a bunch that will undoubtedly make the Rushville aggregation realize that they have been up against a real team.

Hart will be back in the game Sunday, after a several weeks' illness, and his return will be welcomed, and is one of the fastest men in the club. He is a little fellow, but a hard hitter and a crack fielder. Centerfield will be his position in the game on Sunday. J. Peters will catch and Cooley pitch; Coombs will occupy first; Tryon, second; George, third, and Klenk, short. Robinson, Manager Remington's latest addition, will take the left field, and H. Peters, the "Dutch slugger," will be stationed in the right territory.

Manager Walker, of the Arcadians was in the city last evening in conference with Manager Remington and a number of minor details of the series were discussed. The Arcadian man says that Rushville will send a great crowd of fans with the team.

A LITTLE READY MONEY

MEANS much to the man or woman who must earn their own living. The need of it is always present: now and then it is needed very badly. Sickness or accident may stop your earnings for a while. You may want money to build a home, or to take advantage of a good investment. Opportunities often come to the man with ready money. It is the only sure protection against poverty or want.

HOW TO GET IT

BY saving a little every month. It isn't what you earn, but what you save—which increases your fund of wealth. Strange as it may seem, it is the wage earners of this country who save the most money. The wage earner works hard for what he gets and he knows its value. As the years slip by, they bring around a time when his power to earn grows less and his need of money grows more. That time will surely come in the life of each one of us. Are you preparing for it by opening a SAVINGS ACCOUNT with
